

Greetings in Peace and Unity!

On the occasion of your commencement exercise, I warmly congratulate you all for reaching the summit of your efforts and hard work, which is marked by this significant moment. As you witness your hard-earned badge, you must also witness how your most loving and concerned family extended their unconditional support to help you reach this achievement.

Remarkably, you are part of a generation filled with fresh insights, innovative ideas, and adaptive abilities that enable you to cope with the demands of the 21st century. This year's theme exactly suggests your crucial role as agents of change and voices of truth. Thus, you are this country's prime movers and fountain sources toward unity. Your vigor, strength, vibrance, and deep understanding of social issues make you the bravest fighters of this era and beyond.

Truly, you have gone through difficult circumstances that have tested your faith as the hope of the nation. It is difficult to remain strong in the face of uncertainty and injustice. But in these circumstances, our solidarity is most important. By working together, we can overcome obstacles and establish a better Philippines—one in which we boost each other up and create a future we can all be proud of.

I, therefore, encourage you to stay in your core and continue to be our vanguard of justice and the blessing your family and this country deserve. Continue to study hard, pursue your aspired goals, and take on things easy, one step at a time.

We are one with you in truly reuniting and reliving the unity and peace this country once truly had!
